

“Not Quite What It Seems” by Keith Harry
Press Release

“Not Quite What It Seems” is Keith Harry’s sophomore single from his upcoming debut album, “Between the Lines”. “Not Quite What It Seems” released on November 26th, 2022, the day that would have been Keith’s late father’s 60th birthday. “Not Quite What It Seems” is a melodic, upbeat, light-hearted and fun follow up to the more serious and darker toned debut single, “I Should Have Stayed Up”. “Not Quite What It Seems” puts on full display the influence that bands like Steely Dan and Jeff Beck had on Keith’s writing. The song features, JC Mears of The Get Right Band on drums, and Joshua Cavinder of Pixel Vision on guitar and organ. Learn more about Keith, the single and full album at www.harrycareycreations.com.
